

Jordan McGillis is a Policy Analyst at the Institute for Energy Research

In his role, McGillis writes on energy policy and contributes to IER's communications initiatives.

McGillis graduated with a B.A. from the University of South Florida and an M.A. from Seton Hall University, both in International Affairs

Areas of focus: Federal Lands (permitting, drilling rights, ect.), Carbon Tax & Climate Change, Free Market Theory