

Erin Amsberry is a Communications Manager for the Institute for Energy Research. She manages press outreach, digital strategy and traditional communications for IER. Erin's background includes working in communications roles for think tanks and issue advocacy organizations such as the Heritage Foundation, Americans for Prosperity, and most recently as the Social Media and Digital Advertising Associate at the American Enterprise Institute.

Erin received her B.A. in Political Science and Communications from Colorado Christian University. A native Coloradan, she loves exploring the great outdoors and cheering on the Denver Broncos.

She Serves as the media contact for the institute and can be reached at: eamsberry@ierdc.org