

Kenny Stein is the Vice President of Policy and has worked for the Institute for Energy Research since 2017. Kenny received his J.D. from the University of Houston and his B.A. in international relations from American University.

Areas of Expertise: Domestic and international energy policy, environmental regulation and policy, federal land management policy, the electric grid, federalism, legislative and legal analysis